'Communication during Childbirth'

(Philosophy Department and CORTH faculty member)

Place: Fulton 213, University of Sussex

Tanja will talk about her online module 'Communication during Labour' that she prepared for the Royal College of Midwives. She will explain how this ties into her research on communication and birth, and relations between parents and midwives. Her interests also include emotions at birth (anxiety, shame, wonder) as well as home birth, and the role of the midwife in Germany and the UK. She would be interested in discussing any of these topics with the audience.
